

Dear Friends

During this time, we struggle with many dilemmas. There are lack of resources, non-adherence to medications or following simple advice to stay safe.

This is compounded by communication barriers and the cost of care. Continuing partnerships with work colleagues, friends and supporters is not easy – even when we share the same faith.

This Easter is an opportunity to bring our concerns and dilemmas and failures once again to that Cross of Calvary and that empty tomb. This represents God's love for all people, including and especially the most impoverished and marginalised...the Cross that speaks of hope.

May God bless, refresh and encourage you this Easter as you bring yourself and the challenges you're facing to the Cross of Christ.

In Christ
